

Connect with us

JOSE ANDRES BRINGS “HELL’S KITCHEN” TO LATIN HOMES

October 26, 2023

World-famous Spanish-American chef, Jose Andres, will premiere as host for “La cocina del infierno,” a new spin off from the popular cooking-competition series, “Hell’s Kitchen.” With its premiere scheduled for Nov. 15 on FoxNow, the show will replicate the same structure as the original series hosted by Gordon Ramsey. Contestants from different places in Latin America will be tested on their culinary skills and be judged by leaders in the industry including Andres. The show was announced among many other Spanish-speaking productions by Fox Network at the start of the National Hispanic Heritage Month.

The chef sees this show as a fun and entertaining experience but also believes in the positive impact this could have in the Spanish cuisine industry, “I see this as an opportunity to bring attention to a well-established but often overlooked Latin gastronomy. Expect the same drama and suspense of the original Hell’s Kitchen with a pinch of Latin flavor.”

Since his arrival in the US, Jose has always shown a commitment to his Spanish-speaking community, their traditions and their gastronomy. Having successfully opened over 20 restaurants across the country, he’s taught many culinary courses at different prestigious institutions such as Harvard University and the International Culinary Center. He’s also won many awards and honors for his influence in Spanish and Latin cuisine all over the world.

Jose Andres giving a lecture at Harvard University.

Jose cooking with Chefs for Puerto Rico.

Do not miss out on the show's premiere on Nov. 15 at 7 p.m. on FoxNow. New episodes will drop every Wednesday. This show is another example of the commitment of Fox Network to bring the most entertaining contest series to their audiences following the success of "Hell's Kitchen" and "Kitchen Nightmares." It also hopes to bring a space where Latin cuisine can express its uniqueness, its history and its personality.

Published by Poll Bravo

poll@foxnetwork.com

